

Strategies for Assisting Patients With Medication Management

- Telephonic nurse case management to track visits and medication compliance
- Potential home visits for patients having difficulty coming into the office
- Web-based and telephone-based reminder systems that help patients remember their medication regimens
- Having behavioral health practitioners on-site during certain hours of the week
- Others that local medical practices may have identified that work well for their patients