

Midge Bowers DNP, FNP-BC, AACC, FAANP, CHFNP

Midge Bowers DNP, FNP-BC, AACC, FAANP, CHFNP is an Associate Professor at Duke University School of Nursing and Nurse Practitioner in the Same Day Access clinic in Duke Cardiology. She has extensive experience in care of patients with heart failure and has published and presented to local, regional, national and international audiences. She has authored several chapters related to assessment; clinical management and medication use in cardiovascular disease. She is the primary investigator for a research study, Doctor of Nursing Practice Led Model of Care, developing a data mart for outcome tracking and analysis of patients followed in the Duke Heart Failure Same Day Access Clinic and selected skilled nursing facilities.