

William G. Cotts, MD

Dr. Cotts is a Heart Failure Cardiologist at Advocate Christ Medical Center in Oak Lawn Illinois. He is Clinical Director of the Heart Transplantation and Mechanical Circulatory Support Program. He graduated from Loyola Medical School in 1990 and completed his Internal Medicine Residency and Fellowship at the University of Iowa. He also completed a one-year Fellowship in Heart Failure and Transplantation at the University of Iowa. He completed Master of Science in Clinical Investigation Northwestern University. He is interested in Clinical Research and both Mechanical Assistance, Heart Failure and Heart Transplantation. As Director of Heart Failure or Fellowships I have trained a number of cardiologist to be Heart Failure physicians. He enjoys teaching and has received several teaching awards