

Sheryl Geisler, MS, PA-C

Ms. Geisler joined the PA program's faculty in 2003 after teaching for several years on the faculty of the former University of Medicine and Dentistry of NJ (UMDNJ)/Seton Hall University joint program in Newark, NJ. Before entering teaching, Ms. Geisler practiced clinically at the UMDNJ Newark Student Health Services and more recently volunteered clinically for many years at a free clinic for the uninsured. She is a 1997 graduate of the Rutgers PA Program and received her Master of Science-PA degree from UMDNJ in 1999. Her publications have appeared in both the Journal of the American Academy of Physician Assistants (JAAPA) and The Journal of Physician Assistant Education (JPAE), and she is a past JPAE editorial advisory board member. In October of 2016 Ms. Geisler transitioned into semi-retirement, and is currently a part-time Adjunct Associate Professor with the Rutgers PA Program.
