Frank Giannelli, MS, PA-C

Mr. Giannelli received his undergraduate degree in engineering from Lafayette College in 2007. He worked as an engineer and EMT prior to enrolling in the UMDNJ (now Rutgers) PA Program and graduated in 2013. After graduating he worked in Family Medicine at a Federally Qualified Health Center through the National Health Service Corps Scholarship Program. Upon completion of his service, Mr. Giannelli joined the Rutgers PA program full time in 2016. His teaching responsibilities include lectures on Men's Health, directing the Human Development and Health Promotions course and facilitating small group sessions in Medical Interviewing. He continues to practice clinically and precept PA students at the Rutgers PA Program faculty-run free Hope Clinic in Plainfield, NJ.
