

Sarah O'Neil, MS, PA-C, MBA

Sarah O'Neil joined the Rutgers Physician Assistant program faculty in January 2016. She earned her Bachelor's degree in Biological Sciences at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, in 2008. Ms. O'Neil went on to pursue a dual master's degree at Philadelphia University, earning her MBA with a concentration in Healthcare Management in 2009 followed by her M.S in Physician Assistant Studies in 2011. Her clinical experience includes Bariatric Surgery, Adolescent Medicine, and Gastroenterology. She has been practicing clinically in Gastroenterology at Weill Cornell Medicine/New York Presbyterian Hospital since 2013, where she continues to practice part-time as well as participate in clinical research. Ms. O'Neil's primary teaching responsibilities include Clinical Medicine, Physical Diagnosis, Medical Interviewing, and Applied Clinical Research.