

Alyssa Sheridan, MS, PA-C

Alyssa has been practicing as a Physician Assistant in Medical Oncology & Hematology for the past 11 years. She practices as part of a private practice based out of Morristown and Denville NJ. She has prior clinical practice experience in general surgery, where she worked at Morristown Medical Center for 2 years prior to changing specialties to Oncology/Hematology. She graduated with a Bachelor's Degree in Biology from Rutgers University in 2000, and completed her Masters of Science in 2003 from the University of Medicine & Dentistry of NJ (UMDNJ) PA Program. Alyssa has also published a book on complementary medicine for chemotherapy patients, and is an adjunct faculty member at the Rutgers PA Program where she provides oncology lectures for the curriculum.