

Vaccine Information

Sources for Parents

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC): Seasonal influenza (flu)

<http://www.cdc.gov/flu/>

CDC: Vaccines & Immunization, Basics and Common Questions

<http://www.cdc.gov/vaccines/vac-gen>

Immunization Action Coalition

Provides extensive free patient information, including translations of the Vaccine Information Statement (VIS) into multiple languages. Printed materials are reviewed by the CDC for technical accuracy.

<http://www.vaccineinformation.org>

National Network for Immunization Information

Provides the public, health care professionals, policy makers, and the media with up-to-date, scientifically valid information.

<http://www.immunizationinfo.org>

Vaccine Education Center

Located at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, provides patient and provider vaccine information.

<http://www.vaccine.chop.edu>

Institute for Vaccine Safety

Located at Johns Hopkins University School of Public Health, provides information about vaccine safety concerns and objective and timely information to health care providers and parents.

<http://www.vaccinesafety.edu>

CDC: Diabetes & Flu: What You Need to Know and Do

<http://www.cdc.gov/diabetes/news/flu.html>