

BIOGRAPHY

Mark J. Mendelsohn, MD

Associate Professor of Pediatrics
University of Virginia
Charlottesville, VA

Mark Mendelsohn, MD, is an Associate Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Virginia. He received his medical degree from the University of Missouri and completed his pediatric residency and chief residency at the University of Virginia.

Dr. Mendelsohn worked for two years with Kaiser Permanente in Raleigh, North Carolina. Then, he accepted an academic position at the University of Pittsburgh with the Diagnostic Referral Group at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh and worked there for four years. He returned to the University of Virginia in 1996 and teaches in the general pediatric clinics, attends on the inpatient pediatric wards three times per year, directs an international adoption clinic and a diagnostic referral clinic as a general consultative pediatrician.

Dr. Mendelsohn has received numerous teaching awards for his work with medical students and pediatric residents. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics.