

Bio for Nancy M. Holekamp, MD (Activity Co-Chair)

Professor of Clinical Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences
Washington University School of Medicine
St Louis, MO
Director of Retina Services
Pepose Vision Institute
Chesterfield, MO

Nancy M. Holekamp, MD, is Professor of Clinical Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences at Washington University School of Medicine in St Louis, Missouri, and Director of Retina Services at Pepose Vision Institute in Chesterfield, Missouri. She received her medical degree from the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, Maryland. She completed her internship and residency at Washington University School of Medicine, followed by her fellowship at Retina Consultants, Ltd, in St Louis.

Dr Holekamp is actively involved in clinical research, having been principal investigator or subinvestigator on more than 25 national clinical trials investigating therapies for age-related macular degeneration, retinal vascular occlusion, and diabetic retinopathy. Her efforts in research have resulted in 70 peer-reviewed publications, 21 book chapters, and more than 100 speaking invitations both nationally and internationally. She is a member of the major subspecialty societies, including the Retina Society and the Macula Society, as well as the cofounder of Women in Retina. Dr Holekamp is on the editorial board of American Journal of Ophthalmology and currently serves as a reviewer for several ophthalmology journals, such as Archives of Ophthalmology, Ophthalmology, and Retina. After 6 years of serving on the American Academy of Ophthalmology Ethics Committee, she has developed an interest in medical ethics. In addition, she is recipient of several honors including the Senior Honor Award and Secretariat Award, both awarded by the American Academy of Ophthalmology in 2007, and has been named to America's Best Doctors since 2005.