

Pranatharthi Chandrasekar, M.D., FACP, FIDSA
Chief, Infectious Diseases
Wayne State University
Professor, Medicine / Infectious Diseases
Wayne State University / Karmanos Cancer Center
Detroit, Michigan

Pranatharthi Chandrasekar, M.D., FACP, FIDSA is Chief of the Division of Infectious Diseases and Section Chief of Infectious Diseases at Karmanos Cancer Center in Detroit, Michigan. He is also Professor of Medicine in the Division of Infectious diseases at Wayne State University.

Dr. Chandrasekar completed his residency in Internal Medicine at the University of Louisville, Kentucky and Fellowship in Infectious Diseases at the Hahnemann University. His major interests have included epidemiology, prevention, diagnosis and management of infections including invasive fungal infections in immunocompromised hosts, particularly those with underlying cancer and those undergoing stem cell transplantation.

Dr. Chandrasekar has published extensively in these fields and has trained many individuals in the United States and overseas. Dr. Chandrasekar serves in the Editorial Board of several journals including the British Journal of Antimicrobial Chemotherapy.