

Dr Roberta Weintraut graduated from Mercer University School of Medicine, is board certified in Family Medicine, and a Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians. She completed Fellowship training in Integrative Medicine at the University of Arizona with Dr Andrew Weil in 2009. Since 2012, Dr Weintraut has been the Director of the Integrative Division of the Family Medicine Department at Mercer University School of Medicine. She has presented at local, regional and national conferences on Integrative Medicine topics, and serves as a member of the National Advisory Board for the University of Arizona's Integrative Medicine in Residency Program. Her special areas of interest are integrative women's health, botanical medicine, as well as integrative management of neurodegenerative and cardiometabolic disorders.