

Faculty Bio

Eric Simpson, MD, MCR

*Professor of Dermatology, Department of Dermatology
Oregon Health & Science University
Portland, OR*

Eric L. Simpson, MD, MCR, is a professor of dermatology in the Department of Dermatology at Oregon Health & Science University in Portland, OR. Dr Simpson received his medical degree from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, TX. His internship was completed at Baylor University Medical School in Dallas and his residency at Oregon Health & Science University. Dr Simpson completed postgraduate studies at Oregon Health & Science University with a certificate in Human Investigations and a master's degree in Clinical Research.

Dr Simpson practices medical dermatology with special interests in chronic inflammatory skin diseases and skin cancer. He is actively involved in clinical research and is currently funded by the National Institutes of Health and industry partners to study new approaches to chronic skin disease treatment and prevention.

Dr Simpson's collaborations are global in scope and he has been invited to present his research and approach to patient care at international conferences in Europe, North and South America, and Asia. He has published over 80 scientific articles in several high-impact peer-reviewed journals, including the New England Journal of Medicine and The Lancet.

Dr Simpson supports patient advocacy by serving as the co-chair of the Scientific Advisory Committee for the National Eczema Association. He also serves on the executive committee of the Harmonizing Outcome Measures in Eczema (HOME), a volunteer group of patients, providers, and other stakeholders whose mission is to improve the quality of eczema research to better suit the needs of patients and policy-makers.