

Anne Marie Ditto, MD

Associate Professor of Medicine
Division of Allergy-Immunology
Northwestern University
Feinberg School of Medicine
Chicago, IL

Anne Marie Ditto, MD, is an associate professor of medicine in the division of Allergy-Immunology at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine in Chicago, IL. She earned her medical degree at the University of Illinois at Chicago. Her internship, residency, and fellowship were all completed at Northwestern University. Dr Ditto is board certified in allergy-immunology.

Dr Ditto is a practicing allergist with a special interest in urticaria, eosinophilic esophagitis, asthma, and idiopathic anaphylaxis. She volunteers monthly at the Community Health Clinic where she founded an asthma/allergy clinic. She is also actively involved in the allergy-immunology training program at Northwestern, where she has trained over 75 allergists and teaches students and residents in outpatient clinics.

Dr Ditto was invited to fellowship in the American College of Physicians (ACP) and Royal Society of Medicine (RSM) and her distinguished teaching and volunteer work has been recognized through numerous awards, including the Northwestern Medical Faculty Foundation “Center of Excellence Award” for Community Service and Community Health’s “Volunteer Specialist of the Year.”

Dr Ditto is a former president of the Illinois Society of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology and currently serves as Governor of the Midwest Region of the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology’s Federation of Regional State and Local Allergy, Asthma and Immunology Societies (RSLAAIS) and also serves as vice-chair of the AAAAI anaphylaxis committee. She has published numerous articles and book chapters in the field of allergy- immunology and recently edited the “Anaphylaxis” issue of Immunology and Allergy Clinics of North America.