

Cindy A. Leissinger, MD

Professor of Medicine, Clinical Professor of Pathology and Pediatrics
Director, Louisiana Center for Bleeding and Clotting Disorders
Chief, Section of Hematology/Oncology
Tulane University School of Medicine
New Orleans, LA

Cindy A. Leissinger, MD, is currently a professor of medicine and a clinical professor of pediatrics and pathology at Tulane University in New Orleans, LA. She serves as the chief of the Hematology/Oncology Section and is also the director of the Louisiana Center for Bleeding and Clotting Disorders. Dr Leissinger received her medical degree from Tulane University School of Medicine. She completed a residency in internal medicine at Tulane, a research fellowship in hematology at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, MD, and a clinical fellowship in hematology and medical oncology at Tulane. Dr Leissinger is board-certified in internal medicine and hematology.

Dr Leissinger is actively involved in the American Society of Hematology, the International Society on Thrombosis and Haemostasis, and the Hemostasis and Thrombosis Research Society. In addition to caring for patients with bleeding and clotting disorders, Dr Leissinger oversees an active research program. She participates in several clinical research groups and has been an active investigator for many research studies related to bleeding disorders, with a particular interest in factor VIII inhibitor development and management.

Dr Leissinger has many peer-reviewed publications in numerous journals including Blood, The New England Journal of Medicine, Haemophilia, and Thrombosis Research.