Luz Fonacier, MD, FAAAAI, FAAAAI, is the head of allergy in NYU Winthrop Hospital, a clinical campus of Stony Brook University School of Medicine and serves as the program director for the Allergy and Immunology Fellowship Program. Dr Fonacier is also a professor of medicine in USNY at Stony Brook. She completed residencies in dermatology and internal medicine, a fellowship in allergy and immunology in New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, and a fellowship in dermal immunology at New York University Medical Center.

Dr Fonacier serves as the Treasurer of the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology (ACAAI). She chaired the Committee on Dermatologic Allergy of the ACAAI and the Food Allergy, Dermatologic, Drug and Anaphylaxis Interest Section of the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology (AAAAI). She is the recipient of the ARTrust™ and Anjuli Seth Nayak AAAAI Lectureship, the ACAAI John P. McGovern Lectureship, the ACAAI Jean A. Chapman Memorial Lectureship, the ACAAI “Women in Allergy Award”, and the Presidential Award of Asian Pacific Association of Allergy and Clinical Immunology. Dr Fonacier also served as president of the Long Island Allergy Society.

Dr Fonacier has numerous publications in textbooks and journals and continues to be a speaker and faculty in the annual national conventions of ACAAI, AAAAI, and other national and international societies. Because of her training in dermatology, allergy, and immunology, Dr Fonacier’s special interest is the dermatologic manifestations of allergic diseases.
