

Faculty Bio

Russell P. Rosenberg, PhD, DABSM, is currently the director and CEO of NeuroTrials Research and the Atlanta School of Sleep Medicine and Technology. Dr Rosenberg obtained his doctorate in clinical and research psychology from Ohio State University in Columbus, OH and received specialized training in sleep disorders medicine and research at Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago, IL. He is a board certified sleep specialist and fellow of the American Academy of Sleep Medicine. Dr Rosenberg has 30 years of experience in clinical sleep medicine and research. He has given presentations on sleep disorders around the United States as well as in Asia and Europe. Also, he has authored several book chapters and numerous journal articles on sleep disorders. Dr Rosenberg is past Chairman of the National Sleep Foundation (NSF) and has appeared on local and national television news shows, including The Today Show, Good Morning America, Fox News, Headline News, CNN, and MSNBC.