Mark Yoder, MD

Associate Professor
Department of Internal Medicine
Medical Director, Medical Intensive Care Unit
Rush University Medical Center
Chicago, IL

Mark Yoder completed a fellowship in pulmonary and critical care medicine at the Johns Hopkins Hospital. He then joined the faculty at Rush University Medical Center and is currently Associate Professor of Medicine in the Division of Pulmonary, Critical Care and Sleep Medicine. He serves as the Medical Director of the Medical Intensive Care Unit, where multidisciplinary teams care for the majority of critically ill patients with cancer at Rush. This ICU was on the front line of caring for patients with acute respiratory failure and shock from COVID-19, and many of the protocols developed by an inter-professional group of healthcare providers for caring for these patients were piloted in this ICU.
