

Amanuel Kehasse, PharmD, PhD
Clinical Pharmacy Specialist in Rheumatology,
Dermatology, and Interstitial Lung Disease
Boston Medical Center Health System
Boston, MA

Dr. Kehasse earned his Bachelor of Pharmacy degree (BPharm) from University of Asmara, College of Health Sciences in 2003 in Eritrea. Dr. Kehasse then joined the Orotta School of Medicine and served as an assistant lecturer of Biochemistry until 2005. At the same time, he served as the general secretary of Eritrean Pharmaceutical Association (EriPA).

In 2005, he immigrated to the United States of America and earned his Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in medical biochemistry from Boston University School of Medicine, Division of Graduate Medical Sciences in 2012. He then pursued his post-doctoral research fellowship at The Buck Institute -University of California San Francisco (UCSF). His research focused on post translational modification of proteins and biomarker discovery, and has published his research findings at American Journal of Pathology, Journal of Experimental Medicine and Oncotarget.

In 2015, Dr. Kehasse became a registered pharmacist (RPh) in the State of Massachusetts. He then pursued his Pharmacy studies at Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences (MCPHS) and earned his Doctor of Pharmacy (PharmD) degree in 2017.

Currently, Dr. Kehasse is a clinical pharmacy specialist of autoimmune diseases and pulmonary diseases at Boston Medical Center, with special interest in clinical and outcomes research.