Amanda Mixon, PA-C

President of Rheumatology Advanced Practice Providers (RhAPP)

Amanda Mixon, PA-C, is a native of Michigan. She received her bachelor's degree in Health Studies from Michigan State University in East Lansing and her master's degree in Physician Assistant Studies from the University of New England in Maine. She has worked in the field of rheumatology for seventeen years, including being the first physician assistant (PA) in the rheumatology division at Northwestern Medicine in Chicago, Illinois. During the last several years, Ms. Mixon has been active in leadership in the Colorado medical community and has contributed significantly to updating laws and regulations related to physician assistant practice in the state. In 2019, she co-founded Rheumatology Advanced Practice Providers (RhAPP), a national organization of PAs and nurse practitioners practicing in the rheumatology field. She has lectured extensively on a national level and has taught medical, pharmacology, and PA students.
