Faculty Bio

Joseph Lim, MD
Professor of Medicine, Yale University School of Medicine
Director Clinical Hepatology, Digestive Diseases
Vice-Chief of Hepatology, Section of Digestive Disease
Director of Yale Viral Hepatitis Program

Dr. Lim is a Professor of Medicine and Vice-Chief of the Section of Digestive Diseases at Yale University, where he serves as Director of Clinical Hepatology and Associate Chief of Yale-New Haven Health System (YNHHS) Digestive Health. He is a graduate of the Feinberg School of Medicine at Northwestern University (Chicago, Illinois, USA), and completed training in Internal Medicine at Yale University (New Haven, Connecticut, USA), and Gastroenterology/Hepatology at Stanford University (Palo Alto, California, USA). In his role at the Yale Liver Center, he conducts patient-oriented research evaluating clinical outcomes in chronic liver disease and runs an active clinical trials program examining novel investigational agents for viral hepatitis and NASH. He has served in leadership roles for the ACG, AGA, and AASLD, and has served on the Editorial Board of Gastroenterology, Hepatology, Gastrointestinal Endoscopy, and JAMA, and as Editor-in-Chief of BMJ Open Gastroenterology, Current Hepatology Reports, and Clinical Liver Disease.